Proceedings of Congress.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

Wednesday, December 31.
(Concluded.)

Mr. Early. The gentleman from Massachusetts (Mr. Ely) says the time taken up in a voyage to Africa, takes away all excuse for committing a crime on sudden impulse. But if the person be under the impression that it is no crime, I cannot see what difference the time for reflection would make.

But how will this fear of death deter him out of the reach of your law; when carrying his slaves to the Spanish territories beyond our lines. Where the fear of death when he believes punishment will not be inflicted; when a man dare inform, but at the risk of his life. Let it be remembered I now say, there is no man will dare to inform; it will be more than his life is worth. He does not there consider it a crime; he is so educated and so believes.

A high crime—but do the people where the law is to be executed, consider it a crime? They do not, and the law will not be executed.

Suppose, in the year 1793, when there was an insurrection in Pennsylvania, there was a strong law against insurrection; I would ask the gentleman from Pennsylvania, Mr. Smilie, whether he thinks the law could be executed in the four disaffected counties. It could not; because they did not consider themselves criminal. It is so in this case in the southern states.

Many in the southern states deprecate slavery as an evil, a great evil, and hereafter to be, perhaps dangerous, but not a crime. Few indeed consider it a crime. A majority consider it neither an evil nor a crime. Ask most of our planters who are slave holders whether they consider slavery an evil, or a crime, and they will tell you no.

The honor of your country, the honor and glory of your statute book! What honor, to see it thus hoodred, and the law daily violated before your face.

Mr. Ely. One remark; the gentleman speaks of slaves being brought into the Spanish territories near us: But WHO will such be? Not American citizens. Or, if American citizens, are they not ever after liable to this punishment when found in the U. S.?

The holding of slaves I do not consider a crime; our forefathers in New England held slaves. But the going after them, and bringing them here is quite another thing.

But, it is no crime to go after them! What punishment then shall be inflicted. They will deserve none: they must not be fined nor imprisoned, gentlemen may as well tell us.

Mr. Holland. Some gentlemen may consider the importation of slaves an immoral act; but let us suppose the language of the importer to be, "I have bro't these persons from a land of slavery; I found them slaves, in oppression, ignorance and misery, and I have brought them away, to exchange their masters, to better their situation, to improve them, render them more useful to others, and themselves more happy. I consider nothing immoral in this; but you have made a law punishing me with death: who of you is so immoral, or has so little honor or feeling or justice, as to inform against me, and bring me to the gallows?" None would inform.

Some gentlemen have quoted scripture; but they should remember that the scripture, in a variety of places, would be against them.

Mr. Staunton. Those who receive the stolen negroes, are equally guilty; and the purchaser partakes with the thieves.

Mr. Dwight. The general reason given against the punishment of death, is, that it is disproportioned to the offence. Hence many gentlemen endeavor to lessen the nature of the offence. By some, 'tis hardly considered as an offence. If the gentlemen have reason to fear, as they say they have, and as they doubtless have, some future tremendous consequences that may arise from the increase of slavery, I should suppose they would do their utmost to prevent it.

Some gentlemen assert that this is only a commercial question. Let us see how the president considers the subject:

"I congratulate you, fellow citizens, on the approach of the period at which you may interpose your authority constitutionally, to withdraw the citizens of the U. S. from all further participation in those violations of human rights which have been so long continued on the unoffending inhabitants of Africa, and which the morality, the reputation and the best interests of our country, have long been eager to proscribe."

We need not quote scripture to ascertain what is, or is not crime; let every man lay his hand on his heart, and ask himself whether it be no crime to go to a foreign country and take a person from there and enslave him for life.

Mr. Clay observed, that in Pennsylvania no crime was capital but murder in the first degree; that the feelings of the people of that state were opposed to the punishment; nor did he think such punishment the most effectual way to prevent the importation.

Mr. Smilie again spoke in favor of disagreeing; mentioning his belief of the readiness of the people of Pennsylvania to execute this provision.

Mr. Sloan, spoke on the same side.—He called on a gentleman whom he saw in his place, to make good the words he had used the last session; when this subject was then under discussion, that gentleman had declared, that when congress should take up the subject, as permitted by the constitution, to prevent the importation of slaves after eighteen hundred and seven; he would go all lengths, he would punish with death the importer. I then out of doors heard many gentlemen from the southward make the same declaration. Let them now perform their promises.

Mr. Barker spoke against the punishment of death as it was not a crime against the body politic. He was in favor of imprisonment or hard labor, that they might feel themselves what slavery is.

Mr. Varnum. I have known a man declare, that if a person should break into his house, and murder his wife and children before his face, he would not inform against him, to be the means of his trial and consequent death. This man had ideas on the subject similar to my colleague.—Like him he would not put to death any offender for a moral crime, but only a political crime, one against the community at large.——Yet even upon the gentleman's own principles he ought to prefer the punishment of death, for this is in fact a crime against the community at large. The increase of slaves is an increase of an evil, that may hereafter become the danger or ruin of our country——I well remember its being said once in this house by a gentleman from South Carolina, not now a member of this house, that he considered the great number of slaves in his state in the same light as a bundle of combustibles, that required only a spark to spread destruction thro' society.

Mr. Findley said a few words giving his reasons for disagreeing with his colleague, Mr. Smilie.

For agreeing with the committee of the whole, changing the punishment of death to imprisonment 63
Against agreeing 53

The further consideration of the report of the committee of the whole was postponed till Friday.

Mr. J. Randolph reported on the petition of Anthony Benezet and others that it was reasonable and ought to be granted.

Referred to the committee of the whole for Friday next.

Mr. Holmes reported a bill for the relief of of George Little Read twice and made the order for Friday.

Adjourned till Friday.

NEW-YORK, Dec. 29.

Important Intelligence.

BY THE JENNY, FROM FRANCE.

ELEVENTH BULLETIN.

Merseburg, October 19.

The number of prisoners taken at Erfurth is more considerable than was expected. The passports granted to officers who must return home on parole, by virtue of the articles of capitulation, amount to 600. The corps of marshal Davoust took possession of Leipzic on the 18th. The prince of Ponto-Carvo, who was at Eisteben on the 17th, in order to cut off the Prussian columns, having learnt that his Prussian majesty's reserve, commanded by prince Eugene, of Wurtemberg, had arrived at Halle, set out there—having made his arrangements, the prince of Porte-Carvo caused an attack to made upon Halle by general Dupont, and left Druet's division in reserve on the left; the 32d and 9th light infantry passed the three bridges on a charge, and entered the city supported by the 96th. The 2d and 4th regiments of hussars and the whole of general Riveut's division scoured the city and drove the enemy from Dienitz, Poissen and Rabatz.—The Prussian cavalry thought proper to charge the 8th and 9th regiments of infantry, but they were quickly received and repulsed. The prince of Wurtemberg's reserve was most completely routed and pursued to the distance of four leagues. The result of this battle, which deserves a particular and careful relation, is five thousand prisoners, of whom there are two generals and three colonels, some of our standards, and 34 pieces of cannon. General Dupont has greatly distinguished himself. The general of division Rauyer had a horse killed under him. The general of division Drouet, took the whole regiment of Freekow.

The loss on our side amounts only to forty men killed, and 200 wounded. The colonel of the 9th regiment of light infantry was wounded. General Leopold Berthier, chief of the staff of the prince de Ponte Corvo, distinguished himself. By the result of the battle of Halle there are none of the enemy's troops who have not been routed. The Prussian general Blucher with five thousand men came across general Klein's division of dragoons which had routed him. Having alledged to general Klein that there was an armistice for six weeks, this general had the simplicity to believe him. Montesquron, officer of ordinance near the emperor, who had been sent with a flag of truce to the king of Prussia the day before the battle, has returned; he was several days borne along with the flying enemy, he represents the disorder of the Prussian army as indescribable. The day before the battle their bragging was unequalled; they doubted nothing less than to cut through the French army and carry off the columns of 40,000 men. The Prussian generals ape as much as they can the manners of the great Frederick; although we were in their country, these generals appeared to be utterly ignorant of our movements. They believed we had only four thousand men on the little plain of Jena, although the greater part of our army was displayed upon the plain. The enemy's army is obliged to retire to Magdeburg. It is probable that several of their columns will be cut to pieces before they arrive there. We have had no news for several days from marshal Soult, who has been detached with 40,000 men in pursuit of the enemy's army. The emperor has traversed the field of battle; he has ordered the column erected there to be transported to Paris. The head quarters of the emperor was on the 18th at Merseburg, they will be at Halle on the 19th. Considerable magazines of every kind were found in this last city.

TWELFTH BULLETIN.

Halle, Oct. 19.

Marshal Soult has pursued the enemy to the gates of Magdeburg. Several times the Prussians endeavored to take a position, and were always routed.

They have found at Nordhausen considerable magazines, and even a chest of the king of Prussia, full of money.

During the 5 days in which marshal Soult has been employed in pursuing the enemy, he made 1200 prisoners, and took 30 pieces of cannon, and 2 or 3 hundred covered waggons.

The first object of the campaign is fully obtained. Saxony, Westphalia, and all the country situate on the left bank of the Elbe, are delivered from the presence of the Prussian army. That army beaten and closely pursued for more than 50 leagues, is now without artillery, without baggage, without officers, reduced to less than a third of what it was eight days since; and what is still worse than that, it has lost its character and all confidence in itself.

Two divisions of the French army are upon the Elbe, employed in constructing bridges.

The head-quarters are at Halle.

The following letter, which has been intercepted, contains a very particular description of the situation of the Prussians after the battle of Jena.

My Dearest Wife,

I am again alive and well, after having assisted in the unfortunate battle. Alas! I cannot but confess we have lost half of our army, as well as all our best generals. My battalion is completely reduced from the destruction, but it has lost its artillery in the retreat. My company has lost 40 men and lieutenant Schweinitz. If I should undertake to relate to you all our misfortunes, it would be an endless task. All the baggage of our corps of the army has been taken at Weimar; even our servants could not save themselves.

I arrived in the evening of the 16th at Nordhausen, without a horse, and destitute of every thing. The army is in full retreat towards Magdeburg. Her royal majesty has received a wound; nevertheless she is in good health. You can inform Schuberten that her eldest son was killed

...d that the others missing, as well as Ja...ch, Micoulzeck and Joseph Hythilla. We miss besides 5 sub-officers, 4 musicians, 3 cannoners and 2 sappers with all our grenadiers. Sablounouski has lost all his men. So has Foutenius.

The major only has been able to preserve his horse. Many generals are slain. Saintz and Malchitz are missing. The Duke of Brunswick has lost both his eyes with a blow from a musket. Ruchel and Wenning are dead. Very many regiments are without officers—others have officers but no soldiers—our loss is immense. We can no more distinguish our corps; all is in confusion. The battalions of Lostin, Borck and Gradana no more exist; they formed a part of the rear guard which was entirely cut to pieces. You cannot form no idea of the fury with which the French have pursued us. You will be able to write to me to the corps of the army at Magdeburg.

Nordhausen, 17th October.

A passenger in the Jenny, after the ship had dropped down, received the following from his friend at Bordeaux under date of October 31: "The 14th and 15th bulletins arrived this morning by express from Paris by private letters—Berlin was taken the 21st—The king of Prussia is wounded."

We find in one of the French papers, that on the 18th of October, a fire broke out in an old barrack in the centre of the town of Maestricht, during a violent gale of wind, which, in less than five hours reduced 140 houses to ashes. The calamity was great indeed. It is observed, that this is the fourth time that this city has been thus scourged—in 1286, 1318, and 1715, and now there only remain about 100 houses.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 30.

Latest Intelligence from Europe.

By the British packet Dianna arrived at New York, via Bermuda, which left Falmouth on the 12th ult. we have received London papers to the 8th inclusive.——The latest date from the Theatre of war is the 24th of October, on which day the French took possession of Berlin. The Queen of Prussia had reached Stettin on the 19th.

The trial of captain Whitby was to be held at Portsmouth on board the Gibraltar "For a breach of neutrality and for the murder of John Pierce an American subject."

Captain Hargood of the British ship Belleisle, in a letter which he wrote to the secretary of the navy dated off the Capes of Virginia, Sept. 15, 1806, says that he burnt the French ship L'Impetueux of 74 guns after he had chased her on shore, and she had grounded on the coast.

The parliament of Great Britain was dissolved on the 24th of October, and writs for a new election of members issued, returnable on the 15th of December.

Our London papers from which the subjoined extracts are taken, corroberate the French accounts of their success against the Prussians.

LONDON, Oct. 21.

The Cateret packet sailed from Malta on the 13th ult. General Stuart arrived there from Sicily on the 10th. Every part of the two Calabrias had been abandoned to the French, except Scylla in which we still hold a garrison. Thus there appears to be no foundation for the report of a second great victory over the French in that quarter. General Stuart is now on his return to England.

October 29

We have received accounts from Berlin of the 18th stating, that the queen had arrived there on the preceding evening, and again quitted the capital on the 18th. The duke of Brunswick is not dead; he was wounded by a shot at the beginning of the battle, in reconnoitring the the position of the enemy. The loss of killed and wounded is estimated at from thirty to forty thousand men, general Mullondorf, Kalkreuth, Reuchel, Blucher and Tauenzien, are among the number—The battle was fought at Anerstadt. The Prussian army was on its retreat to Magdeburg.

After the battle the head quarters of the French army were transferred to Leipsic, and the advanced guard had actually taken possession of Dresden.

Lord Morpeth, with his suite arrived on the 18th at Hamburg. He came by the way of Weimer and Brunswick.

The letters from Saxony had not arrived at Hamburgh, but orders were come down from Magdeburg to stop the sailing of the vessels up the river Elbe to Magdeburg.

November 1.

The king of Sweden is using every effort for taking an active part in the war; and accounts from Berlin state positively the arrival of a Russian army of sixty thousand men in Silesia, which were advancing by forced marches to the support of the Prussians.

The Gallo-Dutch army had taken possession of Emden, and it was expected they would march to Hamburg and Bremen. The towns of Jena, Halle, Weimar, Naumburg, and other places have been burnt.

We lament to say, that the result of the engagement which took place between the Prussians and the French on the 14th inst. too clearly appears to have been very disastrous to the former; but as the only official statements of the affair which have yet reached us are those drawn up by the French, and published in the Dutch papers, we may entertain a hope that the successes of the enemy have been highly exaggerated; as their losses have been evidently concealed.

It has been currently reported that Prussia, in consequence of her severe disasters, has already concluded a peace with Napoleon. The report, however, is premature, though there is hardly a doubt that such an event will shortly take place. Saxony is detached from her, and the Russians, by the formidable position of the French army are, we fear, incapable of affording any effectual assistance.

The Neptune of 98 guns, arrived at Spithead from Cadiz, has brought the following intelligence. The Neptune and Minotaur left lord Collingwood's fleet off Cadiz, on the 27th ult. consisting of the following ships: Ocean, lord Collingwood, Queen, Admiral Purvis, Tiger, Orion, Zealous, Ajax, Saturn, Swiftsure and Standard, with the Athenienne, Active & Tiger frigates.

The enemy's fleet consists of 12 sail of the line, among which are 5 admirals; they are much in want of seamen. The British squadron is in a high state of health and discipline. Another meeting is devoutly wished for by both officers and men; of the result there can be but one opinion from the iron-nerved admiral, lord Collingwood.

The Thunderer was hourly expected from Messina to join the squadron

From the Theatre of War.

The divisions of Ney, Soult and Murat, having formed a junction, had arrived at Magdeburg, to attack that part of the Prussian army, which had fallen back upon that fortress, in which object the French were disappointed, the Prussians having previously withdrawn beyond the Oder.

It is stated that 30,000 Prussians, under the dukes of Weimar and Brunswick Oels, have passed the Elbe, at Havelberg, on their retreat towards the Oder; beyond which they mean to make a stand, and where they expect to assemble a considerable force.

Part of Murat's division, commanded by general Hulin, entered Berlin on the 24th.

Osnaburg and East Friesland, have been both taken possession of by the French, in the name of the king of Holland; and Hanover will share the same fate—even Hamburg is likely to be in the enemy's possession ere long—for we find that such is the alarm there, that remittances to England had already been made by the merchants of that city to a considerable amount—and the exchange on London had fallen 2 per cent.

The affrighted inhabitants of Germany are flocking from all quarters to Hamburg and Altona, from whence they are expected to take shipping for England. The duke of Brunswick, the venerable father of the princess of Wales, is among the number of the refugees—Bonaparte having insultingly rejected his proposal, relative to the neutrality of his territory, the wounded veteran has been conveyed on a litter to Altona, where he remained on the 1st inst.

There has been an unfounded report that Bonaparte had been shot by a student of Halle or Jena.

Hamburg, October 31.

On the 29th inst. his Britannic majesty's consul gave orders for the British captains in this port, to hold themselves in readiness to depart at 12 hours notice.

Luneburg, October 29.

This day the Prussian troops under general Lecog arrived here on their retreat.

Berlin, October 24.

The emperor Napoleon will to morrow be at Sans Souci, and the next day at Berlin.

Westphalia, Oct. 29.

The county of Lingen has been taken possession of for the king of Holland.—All the Prussian eagles and the Prussian arms have been taken down by order of general Michaud.

Alexandria Daily Advertiser.

CAUTION!

We have been frequently advertised of the many accidents that have been occasioned by the explosion of powder magazines in different parts of the world, and lately having it brought to my mind by passing the powder house in Alexandria and seeing within a few yards of it a potter's kiln on fire, and completely within reach of its sparks, caused me to query whether the inhabitants of the town knew or were sensible of the imminent danger of their situation. In case the unfortunate accident should happen, there would be little reason to expect one half of the buildings in the town would be left standing, and perhaps not more of its inhabitants spared from its ruins.

James L. Cathcart, esq. has been appointed consul of the United States for the island of Madeira, vice Mr. Lemar, deceased.

A letter received in New York, dated Trinidad, November 22, states that Miranda had gone to Barbadoes; that a British expedition for the Spanish Maine was preparing there; that Miranda was to receive a commission of brigadier general, and that a number of his officers were also to receive commissions in the British service.

Captain Garrow, of the schooner Caroline, arrived at Norfolk in 7 days from Matanzies, in Cuba, informs, that about 16 days since, a British force entered the port of Barracoa, and destroyed the place by fire. In consequence of which the government of Cuba, fearing a similar attempt on Matanzies, had sent 2000 troops from Havanna to that place. The expedition was understood not to be accompanied by any troops, but consisting only of officers and seamen of the navy, and marines.

☞ The Second Assembly will be on Tuesday evening next.—A carriage will be provided as usual, and sent where directed on application to John Gadsby.

Is appointed their agent for Alexandria,

AND HA JUST RECEIVED,

A LARGE SUPPLY OF

Patent and Family Medicines,

From their Medicine Warehouse,

BALTIMORE.

THE above Richard Lee and Son is father and brother to the deceased Richard Lee, of New York, and have prepared those valuable medicines for upwards of seven years, from the original receipts now in our possession. This public notice is rendered necessary by imitations of them having been lately advertised for sale in New York, Philadelphia, and other places. Effectually to counteract such unprincipled attempts we wish the public to be informed, that the genuine medicines are only prepared by Richard Lee and Son, Baltimore, and sold by Nicholas Hingston, Alexandria—Messrs. Rapine, Conrad and Co. Capitol Hill, Washington—Ninian Magruder, druggist, Georgetown, and no where else in the above places. N. B. The signature of Richard Lee and son is on the outside wrappers, without which, none are genuine.

An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure.

For the prevention and cure of Bilious and Malignant Fevers is recommended

Lee's Anti-Bilious Pills,

Prepared by Richard Lee and Son, Baltimore.

The operation of these pills is perfectly mild, so as to be used with safety by persons in every situation, and of every age.

They are excellently adapted to carry off superfluous bile, and prevent its morbid secretions—to restore and amend the appetite—produce a free perspiration, and thereby prevent colds, which are often of fatal consequences—a dose never fails to remove a cold, if taken on its first appearance. They are celebrated for removing habitual costiveness—sickness at the stomach and severe head-ache—and ought to be taken by all persons on a change of climate. They have been found remarkably efficacious in preventing and curing disorders attendant on long voyages, and should be procured, and carefully preserved for use by every seaman.

Lee's genuine Essence and Extract of Mustard.

A safe and effectual remedy for acute and [illegible] from dissipated pleasures, juvenile indiscretions, residence in climates unfavorable to the constitution, the immoderate use of tea, frequent intoxication, or any other destructive intemperance, the unskilful or excessive use of mercury, the diseases peculiar to females at a certain period, of lifebad lyings in, &c.

LEE'S ELIXER,

A sovereign remedy for colds, obstinate coughs, astmas, sore throats, and approaching consumptions. To parents who may have children afflicted with the hooping cough,

This discovery is of the first magnitude, as it affords immediate relief, checks the progress, and in a short time entirely removes the most cruel disorder, to which children are liable; the Elixer is so perfectly agreeable, and the dose so small, that no difficulty arises in taking it.

Lee's Worm-destroying Lozenges,

Which have, within six years past, cured upwards of one hundred thousand persons of both sexes, of every age, and in every situation, of various dangerous complaints arising from worms, and from obstructions or foulness in the stomach and bowels.

Lee's Sovereign Ointment for the Itch,

Which is warranted an infallible remedy at one application, and may be used with the most perfect safety by pregnant women, or on infants a week old, not containing a particle of mercury or any dangerous ingredient whatever, and is not accompanied with that tormenting smart which attends other remedies.

Dr. Larou's Indian Vegetable Specific,

For the cure of venereal complaints.

The experience of several thousands who have been cured by this medicine (a great proportion of them, after the skill of eminent physicians had proved ineffectual) demonstrates its efficacy in expelling the virus, however deeply rooted in the constitution, and in counteracting those dreadful effects which often result from the improper use of mercury.

The mildness of the Vegetable Specific, is equal to its surprising efficacy; its operation is so gentle that it is given to patients in a state of pregnancy, with the utmost safety, and performs a cure without disturbing the system or producing any of those disagreeable effects inseperable from the common remodies.

With the medicine is given a description of symptoms which obtain in every stage of the disease, with copious directions for their treatment, so as to accomplish a perfect cure in the shortest time, and with the least inconvenience possible.

EYE WATER,

A sovereign remedy for all diseases of the eyes, whether the effect of natural weakness or accident.

TOOTH ACHE DROPS,

The only remedy yet discovered which gives immediate and lasting relief in the most severe instances.

LEE'S CORN PLAISTER,

An infallible remedy for speedily removing corns, root and branch, without giving pain.

VALUABLE LANDS,

There is about 200 or 400 acres of the tract cleared, the remainder in woods and a great part of it heavily timbered; about 30 or 40 acres of meadow, and nearly 300 acres more may be made on the bottoms adjoining the two runs.

ALSO,

One other tract of one hundred acres, about two miles from Alexandria, part of the Cleish Tract, and adjoining the lands of Messieurs John C. Herbert, Robert Patton, and John Richter, the Mount-Vernon road running through it. This tract is mostly in woods, and conveniently situated for country seats. If these lands should be sold at private sale, (which I would prefer) I will take in payment, if more convenient to the purchasers, stock of any of the banks from Richmond to New-York, or any kind of stock of the United States.

If they are not sold before Friday the first day of May next, the Mill Tract will, on that day, be sold at public auction, to the highest bidder—and on the following day the Cleish Lands will be sold in like manner. The Mill Tract will be divided into three or four farms and sold subject to a lease of four and an half years from the first day of July last. The Cleish Tract will be divided into lots of 10 or 20 acres each. If sold at public auction the terms will be made known on the days of sale.
